The latest trick of the frequent boy is to chalk an envelope on the door sill in the evening, and then ring the bell. It is impossible to pick up the letter.

A sewing school is soon to be opened in Scranton, under the patronage of the Y. M. C. A. "Something very funny might be said in this connection if one dared say it."

An Indiana reformer has been saying hard things of the Government "for taking the tax off pinners who we don't use, and keep it on us whiskey who we do."

An angry street was shot forty-eight times in Council Bluffs, Iowa, last Thursday; but he cleared out the town and galloped away apparently unhurt.

A Dubuque editor swallowed a pen by mistake the other day, and he is twice as scared as if he had swallowed a gross of scissors.

We hear of a man in Fulton, N. Y., who has a stone that Washington threw at a woodpecker in his father's cherry tree, just before the hatchet affair.

A Dutch Congressman remarked: "Ven I was elected I thought I would find all men Solomon down here; but I found there was some as pick fools here as myself."

The "first lady" business affairs Cincinnati just now, the question being whether an alderman's wife is higher than the wife of the county recorder.

Florida, as a winter resort, has become so popular that land which used to be entirely worthless is selling for $20 to $60 per acre for fruit culture.

That was an absent-minded young man who on taking up the daily paper, turned the column of births, and said, "I wonder if there is anybody born that I know."

Eastern editors are asking each other: "How would you like to be Bonner's horse?" Bonner having purchased a $40,000 farm on which to pasture his racing equine.

"Dried tongue," was the answer which a minister, just going out to "exchange," gave to someone who asked him what he had in his carpet bag—which contained seven sermons.

According to the Memphis Avalanche, the famous Private Daniels left out his ears every Summer for circus tents. Private Daniels' ears in Summer must stretch from pole to pole.

The Richmond Enquirer acknowledges the superabundance of handsome young ladies there, and thinks they look good-looking Yankees just enough to marry them for revenge, if they ever have an opportunity.

A beau in Irasburg, Vermont, took his girl out for a ride. The sleigh tipped over and broke her leg. Then the beau sent her home on a wood sleigh that chanced to come along, and continued his ride alone.

A Syracuse minister at a temperance meeting last week said they could depend upon the Lord every time. Another clergyman admitted that, but sensibly added, "Well, what we want to know is—can we depend upon you?"

The girls of Alton, Iowa, have resolved to have nothing to do with young men who drink, smoke, chew, snuff, or drive fast horses—but with the proviso that Chicago drummers don't count.

At Dieppe, in France, the following notice has been issued by the police: "The bathing police are requested, when a lady is in danger of drowning, to seize her by the dress, and not by the hair, which oftentimes remains in their grasp."

A widow in Sutton, N. H., recently visited a drinking woman, and said: "I have been wanting for some time to see one about to die, that I might send a message to my husband. Tell him that we are well here, and send our best regards."

The Cincinnati Enquirer offers to bet $500 that no fashionable lady ever goes to bed without first looking in her glass, and we are willing to risk the same sum that no Cincinnati editor goes to bed without drinking out of his.

A couple of Iowa blacksmiths, formerly in partnership, have a curious lawsuit. One sues the other for labor performed and money paid out, and the other presents a counter claim for twelve months' checker-playing indulged in by the plaintiff when he should have been at work.

The Taunton Gazette says: "A lady entering one of our stores yesterday, noticing the window draped in sombre mourning, and who was dressed in 'Widow's Mourning,' said the polite attendant, 'Oh,' responded the obtuse interrogator, 'was he a clerk here?'"

Danger from Wet Clothes.

Few persons understand fully the reason why wet clothes exert such a chilling influence. It is simply this: Water, when it evaporates, carries off an enormous amount of heat in what is called the latent form. One pound of water in vapor contains as much heat as nine or ten pounds of liquid water, and all this heat must, of course, be taken from the body. If our clothes are moistened with three pounds of water—that is, if by wetting they are rendered three pounds heavier, these three pounds will, in drying, carry off as much heat as would raise three gallons of ice-cold water to the boiling point. No wonder damp clothes chill us.

A young man, who left Brooklyn three years ago, to "go West and grow up," has just been heard from. He writes home to his friends, from Idaho, saying that the country is the most beautiful the sun ever shone on, and the inhabitants the most sociable he ever met. Also, that he expects to be hanged in about four days, for stealing a mule.

"If you are courting a girl," says a California paper, "stick to her, no matter how large her father's feet are."

A Source of Great Anxiety.

My daughter has received great benefit from the use of VIOLET. Her declining health was a source of great anxiety to all her friends. A few bottles of the VIOLET restored her health, and she is now as well as ever.

MOTHERS, READ THIS!

A GREAT BLESSING!

Worth a Dollar a Drop.

Mother, are your little ones fretful? And is your patience almost exhausted in vain efforts to please them? Give them a little of this, and you will find that you will make your little child quiet, give a good appetite, and procure for it hours of sweet, sound sleep.

My little girl is two and a half years old, and during that time, I have not had two consecutive nights' rest. She has been sick a number of times, and it was hard to hear her little fretful cry, and not know what to do for her. I doctored her with worms, but it did no good; and I was nearly tired out with sleepless nights and troublesome days.

I heard of the VIOLET and determined to try it. It has proved a blessing to me and my child. I had almost given up, and now she sleeps soundly, and in fact, she is like a different child. I can say, the true value of this medicine to me is a dollar a drop. Try it. Cleanse the humors from the blood, and your child will be young. Try it, and you will join with me in calling it a great blessing. MRS. ELLEN L. CLAPP, 115 TUTOR STREET, SOUTH BOSTON, July 10, 1871.

CIRCULATION OF THE BLOOD.

The circulation of the blood is the life of the body, and its stoppage is death. We are healthy when the blood circulates freely; any interruption preventing its free course is the commencement of disease. Blood is the life of the body. Can we expect to enjoy good health, when bad or corrupted blood is the life of the body? Can we expect to live long, when the blood is impure? Can we expect to be vigorous, when the blood is impure? Can we expect to be healthy, when the blood is impure? Can we expect to be strong, when the blood is impure? Can we expect to be wise, when the blood is impure? Can we expect to be rich, when the blood is impure? Can we expect to be happy, when the blood is impure? Can we expect to be immortal, when the blood is impure? Butler has been expounding Butlerism to an inquiring reporter, and he puts it, it isn't so bad. Only he may be biased.

Mr. Gladstone's letter to Earl Granville gives comfort to his party. Gladstone is sick of politics and of the ingratitude of "the masses."

A scientific paper tells us "There is no way of proving that the earth rotates upon its axis except by the pendulum." Very well; has it not been already proved sufficiently by the pendulum? Why, then, should some disguised clock-maker seek to try a drive in cheap time-pieces by getting up to thinking the earth may stop rotating unless we keep on multiplying pendulums? A truant, too impotent; its speech beareth these!

Daves is up head again, and the Butler job is said to have got "up in the air" in the fight to elect him. We are sorry but not surprised; such little grapples as they are having over in Boston, are enough to stop the temper even of a patient and hard-working body. But when the storm is past, "How beautiful," as the eulogist of Napoleon said, "of Washington, 'will be the Heaven that it clears.'"

If certain Democratic members of Congress are not more careful about their votes on the inflation question they may compromise the old party brag concerning "hard money." The only man on that side who seems to remember the ancient war cry is Senator Thurman, and he sticks by the flag. But he looks so gloomy about his ideal coins with green backs, printing press rates, and all that, that we hope his friends will go over and re-inform him.

Isn't the "most influential newspaper in New England" a shameless underling in calling Mr. Beecher "Shameless!" Questionless a proper nominal adjective is a strong thing if it happens to be legitimately constructed, and the temptation to build one out of convenient timber is well nigh irresistible, but after all we grope to see the "good graces" which have nearly said it, launching an epithet at a man who has his hands full just now. Come, come, ye thoroughbred quill-drivers, don't help on your enemy, the devil, in this era of festering scandal. Pax biblicum.

One unlucky result of having so many different kinds of business in various parts of the country at the same time is to prevent the victim of it from being any long enough to do anything well. At least so Mr. Sanborn feels to be. He is bawling with desire to testify before the Ways and Means Committee in justification of his fashion of dealing with defaulters, but is hindered by impending suits against him in New York. Thus he is unable to satisfy his enemies in the North or his friends in Washington. Like the sailor before him, he is bawling with desire to sing—

"How happy could I be with either,
"Were'th'er dear charmer away."

If emphatic talk and plenty of it helps a man to rise in the world Mr. Beebe of Sullivan is bound to make something higher than a mere "capitulation." That eloquent gentleman costs the reporters and correspondents more feet of black paper than almost any body else in Albany. He is either "ridiculing the idea of the Chairman of the Ways and Means," "repelling the insinuation" of some sinister slanderer, or holding up to scorn the allegations of some miserable "allegator" most of his time. Mr. Beebe is nearly always right in the way to go, and his remarks all the more tedious for those who don't like him.

Mr. Proctor must have a new suit of clothes; he has lectured nine or ten times in the suit he brought with him, and observing auditors in the front seats solemnly declare a habitually transit to be imperative. "Dress," as Mr. Proctor knows, "makes the man, the want of it the fellow; and all the rest is leather and prunella." So, at least, says an English poet, if we mistake not. That is, if we are not solely correct in this little quatrain we are not prepared to affirm; but upon reflection we are ready to say that the great star-gazer cannot afford altogether to hold the poet's opinion in nebulous contempt. Shining broadcloth for the ultimate lecture, Mr. Proctor, if you love us.

Charles Francis Adams may be a man of rather an unusual type, but he certainly isn't sleeping upon the tomb of his ancestors. If he were he would hardly have waked himself up to write the very best account of the present commercial situation that was submitted to the Stearns Hall meeting, and that he did it, nobody who read or heard his letter will dispute. Mr. Adams made one principal point and illustrated it clearly. That is, there must be some permanent financial policy on the part of the government. How queer it is that neither the House nor the Senate saw the document. Dear, dear, the mails are so unreliable!

Postmaster James of New York in a late letter to the Tribune defends the management of the Department generally and especially with his own province in the matter of the new stamps. He says that the new stamps, if not so quick the noble army of grumblers. He says the post-office is a constantly improving convenience, and shows that much is required of it which is hardly accounted to knowledge. He complains, however, with the manifest endorsement of the Commissioner of human nature, that the receipts of the city post-office exceed its expenditures by $1,500,000 per annum, a sufficient number of carriers should be provided for out of the surplus.

Why don't that North Carolina volcano break out? We shall lose confidence in those whole performances of the word "fairly" if we do not see the noble army of grumblers. He says the post-office is a constantly improving convenience, and shows that much is required of it which is hardly accounted to knowledge. He complains, however, with the manifest endorsement of the Commissioner of human nature, that the receipts of the city post-office exceed its expenditures by $1,500,000 per annum, a sufficient number of carriers should be provided for out of the surplus.

Marco Bozzaris and the Erie Railway workmen have agreed to "strike till the last armed foe expires." Which is very noble and brave, but the laborers (Marco is dead, we believe), but the bothers the company to a degree. Special constables by the train-load are shipped from Jersey City to Susquehanna all filled with courage and "sworn" from top to bottom, yet passengers are stopped and innocent engines disabled. It is almost impossible to "Go West" by that route any one had a pass. The road between Dives and Lazarus is hardly more difficult to travel. As Lord Dundreary says, "Why don't the parties compromise?"

We like our friend Mr. Tilton, and also his bright, brisk paper, the Golden Age; but somehow we wish he hadn't written that letter to the Council. The letter contains nothing in relation to the affair with which his name is associated that is not already well known, nor any point which will help Mr. Beecher or enlighten the body of divines to whom it is addressed. As a matter of fact it does not justify the Plymouth pastor by the conspicuous iteration of the word "fairly" in the denial it contains of Mr. Tilton's having spoken against that gentleman. The whole thing is muddled enough now—further complications will only befog the Council and enrage the over-heated brain of Brooklyn.

Bayard Taylor is the most eminent lufdell before the fall of the domestic gods in the world. He perpetually contests the standard of "where there is no home," by hunting up and publishing accounts of a thousand-and-one places precisely like it—or more so. There isn't a hotel in creation into which he has not stuck his intelligent head nor a palace where tessellated floor has not rung with his adventurous tread. "Postally no admittance" means no more to him than a Hebrew psalm would to a Mississippi boatman. As Mrs. Hemans avers of death, so of Bayard, he "has all seasons for his own." What a tramp it is; and what capital letters it writes. Give us some more.

There, Now! We implore some one to go and comfort John Paul. He can be found in Boston, New Jersey, in a distressing state of mind. We make haste to say that he mourns over a grievance which should and will excite public sympathy; he has been called "a California Humorist" (with a big H). Now we submit that John Paul has done nothing to deserve this; he has written letters from different places, merely in the character, as Mr. Cox would say, "of an eclectic philosopher;" and these have somehow got into print. He has made no cold-blooded digs at the public ribs with a view to elicit an idle or untimely cackling. If he has been a little funny upon a while by reason of some irresistible impulse from without his own soul, he is to be condemned for it as though he had done it "with malice prepense and aforethought." Not if there is any such thing as justice left in the human bosom. We are witnesses, and there is a perfect "cloud" of us. Last summer—we remember we never finished one of them. We went to induce certain epistles from Saratoga. The days were hot; the joyous grasshopper was a burden and the thermometer a scientific insult; paper collars wilted upon masculine necks, and the rosy cheeks of America's fair daughters were as streaked as the striped banner itself; well, in such weather as that, we say, John Paul wrote letters to his brother-men from Saratoga and washed his burning throat with liquid sulphur from the infernal springs with which that untimely place is cursed. Those letters we shall never forget; we began their perusal every day and never finished one of them. Somewhere in medias res we lost consciousness, and as the other Paul pleasantly says, "fell on sleep." Now does the Atlantic Monthly—for that is the pig-headed periodical that calls him a Humorist (with a big H)—mean to say those letters were funny? If we should let the matter rest, we should stand their drift. We hope now we do, really—that John Paul won't fret himself into a general disability; he is naturally as serious as the president of a medical college, and his friends are aware of it. Only he'd better come away from Doanston; therefore once something good will come out of Jersey.

Those letters we shall never forget; we began their perusal every day and never finished one of them. Somewhere in medias res we lost consciousness, and as the other Paul pleasantly says, "fell on sleep." Now does the Atlantic Monthly—for that is the pig-headed periodical that calls him a Humorist (with a big H)—mean to say those letters were funny? If we should let the matter rest, we should stand their drift. We hope now we do, really—that John Paul won't fret himself into a general disability; he is naturally as serious as the president of a medical college, and his friends are aware of it. Only he'd better come away from Doanston; therefore once something good will come out of Jersey.

There, Now! We implore some one to go and comfort John Paul. He can be found in Boston, New Jersey, in a distressing state of mind. We make haste to say that he mourns over a grievance which should and will excite public sympathy; he has been called "a California Humorist" (with a big H). Now we submit that John Paul has done nothing to deserve this; he has written letters from different places, merely in the character, as Mr. Cox would say, "of an eclectic philosopher;" and these have somehow got into print. He has made no cold-blooded digs at the public ribs with a view to elicit an idle or untimely cackling. If he has been a little funny upon a while by reason of some irresistible impulse from without his own soul, he is to be condemned for it as though he had done it "with malice prepense and aforethought." Not if there is any such thing as justice left in the human bosom. We are witnesses, and there is a perfect "cloud" of us. Last summer—we remember we never finished one of them. We went to induce certain epistles from Saratoga. The days were hot; the joyous grasshopper was a burden and the thermometer a scientific insult; paper collars wilted upon masculine necks, and the rosy cheeks of America's fair daughters were as streaked as the striped banner itself; well, in such weather as that, we say, John Paul wrote letters to his brother-men from Saratoga and washed his burning throat with liquid sulphur from the infernal springs with which that untimely place is cursed. Those letters we shall never forget; we began their perusal every day and never finished one of them. Somewhere in medias res we lost consciousness, and as the other Paul pleasantly says, "fell on sleep." VINEGAR BITTERS
Dr. J. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters are a purely vegetable preparation, made chiefly from the native herbs found on the lower ranges of the Sierra Nevada mountains of California, the medicinal properties of which are extracted through the use of Alcohol. The question is almost daily asked, "What is the cause of the unparalleled success of VINEGAR BITTERS?" Our answer is, that they remove the cause of disease, and the patient recovers his health. They are the great blood purifier and a life-giving principle. A perfect Restorative and Invigorator of the system. Never before in the history of the world has a medicine been compounded possessing the remarkable qualities of VINEGAR BITTERS in healing the sick and every disease which is their cause. They are a gentle Purgative, well as a Tonic, relieving Congestion, Inflammation of the Liver and Visceral Organs in Bilious Diseases.

The properties of Dr. J. Walker's VINEGAR BITTERS are: Astringent, Diaphoretic, Carminative, Nutritious, Laxative, Bile, Sedative, Counter-Irritant, Stomachic, Alterative, and Anti-Bilious.

Grateful Thousands proclaim VINEGAR BITTERS the most wonderful and important that ever sustained the sinking system. No Person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and vital organs wasted beyond repair.

Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many others, with their vast tributaries, throughout our entire country during the Summer and Autumn, and remarkably during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, restoring the normal influence upon these various organs, is essentially necessary. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to Dr. J. Walker's VINEGAR BITTERS, as they will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Fortify the body against disease by purifying all its fluids with VINEGAR BITTERS. No epidemic can take hold of a system thus fortified.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offspring of Dyspepsia. One bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

Serofula, or King's Evil, White Swellings, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Glands, Scrofulous Inflammations, Indolent Ulcers, Mercurial Affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, etc. In these, as in all other constitutional diseases, WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have no equal. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiating Blood.

Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Painting and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Lead-workers, Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this, take a dose of WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS occasionally.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetters, Salt-Rheum, Blisters, Sores, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ringworms, Scald-head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurs, Discolorations of the Skin, Itch and Diseases of the Skin of whatever name or nature, are literally day and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that improvement is soon perceptible.

Cleanse the Vitiating Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

For Skin Diseases.—Eruptions, Tetter, Salt-Rheum, Blisters, Sores, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-worms, Scald-head, Sore Eruptions, Itch, Scurf, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors, and Diseases of the Skin of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuge, no anthelmintics will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that improvement is soon perceptible.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Itch, cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.
